Hey! Everything in here is better suited to httpd.conf, since # we get a performance boost if we can turn off AllowOverride and # not have to stat the webroot for every request. On the other # hand, this means we never have to touch apache once it's up.
Flexibility over performance.
In an ideal world, you'd stick it in here on dev and your build
system would bundle the changes into (a file included in) httpd.conf
for your production deployment. Yeah. Do that.
